

Dear Clinical Student,

The New Zealand Psychological Society would like to extend to you an invitation to join our professional group, the Institute of Clinical Psychologists (ICP). The ICP is the specialist clinical psychology body within the Psychological Society, which caters specifically for the needs of our profession. As a clinical student, you are now eligible to join us.

Membership offers you many benefits, in particular;

- The opportunity to meet and talk with future colleagues and supervisors
- Assistance in keeping abreast of topical issues within the clinical profession
- Reduced fees for ICP educational materials and activities
- Familiarity with ongoing competency standards for clinical psychologists
- Eligibility for the best ICP- student paper prize at the annual conference
- Cover under the Society's Professional Indemnity Insurance scheme at no charge while registered as an "Intern Psychologist"

How much does it cost?

Nothing! Membership is FREE for all existing NZPsS students.

Who can belong?

Current Student Subscribers of the NZPsS who are enrolled in a postgraduate clinical psychology programme may join.

What do I need to do?

When you apply to become an NZPsS student we will add you as an ICP student subscriber at the same time- no need to complete another form 😊

What if I don't belong to the NZPsS yet?

Join up! You can apply online. Just go to our website:

<http://www.psychology.org.nz/study-careers/student-hq> or contact the Society's Membership Administrator at membership@psychology.org.nz