Psychologist - NZIC Psychology Services (Wellington)

- Want to practice in a unique environment?
- Be involved in an innovative Psychology Service
- Contribute to the safety and security of New Zealand

If the Intelligence Community helps protect the people of New Zealand, who helps protect the Intelligence Community?

The New Zealand Intelligence Community (NZIC) are looking for someone with energy and drive to join our new Psychology Services team as a Clinical Psychologist.

The NZIC Psychology Services team has been established to develop, maintain and oversee the delivery of psychological services to support the people in our community. The Psychology services we provide include:

- Staff wellbeing and clinical services
- Consultation with providers and stakeholders
- Training and development
- Psychological testing, recruitment and protective security
- Organisational support

As our Psychologist you will deliver psychological services to support the NZIC. You will be an innovative and effective practitioner and have a proven track record of delivering professional psychology services as well as –

- A breadth of psychological practice
- Experience administering, interpreting and integrating a range of psychometric tests
- An ability to provide effective therapeutic practice
- The ability to build and maintain productive working relationships

You will be adept at working within a responsive team environment and develop strong working relationships with a range of services.

You will be registered to practice with the New Zealand Psychologist Board as a psychologist in New Zealand. You will have a minimum of a Masters level qualification in an area of clinical psychology, along with a number of years' of experience in the related field.

If you are looking for an opportunity to make your mark in a new, exciting, fast paced and dynamic environment, then this is the role for you.
