

PEERS® for Young Adults Certified Training Teleconference - 17-19 February 2022, 8am-4pm (AEDT)

The UCLA Program for the Education and Enrichment of Relational Skills (PEERS®) is a 16-week evidence-based and parent-assisted social skills intervention for preschoolers, adolescents and young adults with autism, adhd, social anxiety and other social challenges who are interested in learning ways to help them make and keep friends.

Target Audience for the 3 day training

This training is designed specifically for psychologists, mental health professionals and special educators interested in learning and/or implementing the PEERS intervention into their clinical practice. Attendees will receive 3 days of intensive instruction regarding the PEERS research and intervention which will enable implementation of the PEERS for Young Adults intervention into their clinical practice.

Learning objectives for the 3 day training

- Attendees will learn about the friendship and social difficulties common to young adults with autism spectrum disorder and other social challenges.
- Attendees will learn how to conduct group social skills training for young adults and their parents/caregivers.
- Attendees will become familiar with the PEERS® for Young Adults Treatment Manual and the research upon which it is founded.
- Attendees will be equipped with the tools to deliver PEERS® in community mental health, medical, research, or educational settings.
