

Clinical Psychologist – ADHD & Autism – Remote and Nationwide

Beehyve is a buzzing hub of practitioners bringing together GPs, coaches, and therapists who understand adult ADHD and neurodivergence. We offer an integrated approach to health and well-being, including assessment, medication support, coaching and therapy. Our focus is creating a safe and supportive place where people feel understood and empowered.

We're looking for Psychologists who care about people and want to be part of a thoughtful, flexible team, who share ideas, learn from each other and where different ways of thinking and being are valued.

The role

You'll be involved in:

- ADHD assessments, including where complex or overlapping symptoms may be present (differential assessments)
 - therapy with a small, well-matched adult caseload (18+)
 - telehealth delivery within a collaborative, multidisciplinary team
 - working alongside GPs and other clinicians where medical input is appropriate
- Autism assessment experience is valued but isn't essential.

You'll practise within agreed clinical frameworks, professional standards and your own scope of practice.

We care about:

- communication that is clear, respectful and empowering
- curiosity, creativity, and openness to new approaches
- adapting to the individual
- thoughtful, ethical practice
- kindness, inclusion and doing work that genuinely makes a difference

You'll be:

- a registered Clinical Psychologist with the NZ Psychologists Board / NZ College of Clinical Psychologists
- genuinely interested in neurodiversity-affirming practice
- thoughtful, reliable, and easy to work with
- comfortable collaborating whilst also working independently

Why Beehyve?

You'll have the flexibility and autonomy that comes with contractor-based work, while still being part of a team that values connection and collaboration. The role is fully remote, so you can work from anywhere in Aotearoa.

We care about the work we do and genuinely value different ways of thinking and working.

So, if you're looking for meaningful work in a team that values people, different perspectives, and thoughtful practice, we'd love to hear from you, just send your application to clare.marks@beehyve.health