

Wellbeing Advisor - Student Welfare

Students and Global Engagement Palmerston North

Due to Covid-19 and the worldwide pandemic, we are currently only accepting applications from New Zealand citizens, New Zealand residents who are either residing in New Zealand or overseas OR applicants who hold a valid work visa and are currently living in New Zealand.

The Massey University (Manawatu) Student Care team is seeking an experienced and dynamic mental health professional to provide training and support to other university staff who are managing student emotional unwellness. In addition you will support the clinical colleagues (medical and counselling) with wellbeing promotion, education and outreach.

While based in Palmerston North, the role has a national reach and cooperates with colleagues across the university campuses. As part of a supportive team, this challenging role will suit a person with a Social Work, Counselling, Mental Health or related qualification and experience working with our demographic. Although this is not primarily a clinical role, it includes significant student contact and support, as well as opportunities for personal and professional growth in a dynamic environment. You will be required to develop and deliver training and to provide consultation or supervision of other university staff.

We require the following:

- At least three years' experience and high-level skills in a relevant role
- An appropriate undergraduate degree in a relevant discipline such as social work, counselling, psychology, mental health nursing, health promotion or similar
- Current registration and practicing certificate as required within the discipline

If you would like to join a fun and supportive team while making a significant difference to the wellbeing and success of our students, please do apply. As a university we also offer very attractive benefits and advantages and an easy lifestyle on our attractive and accessible campus.

Closing date: 16 March 2021
